Out of 400 saloons in Minneapolis only 200 made application for license, and only 79 were able to pay the $1,000 license.

The National bureau of statistics shows that on the $700,000,000 which annually passes into the tills of the retailers of intoxicating liquors in this country there is a profit of 133⅓ per cent.

Sidney, Australia, has an electric light which throws its rays fifty miles out to sea. It will take even a stronger electric light than that to find the civil service reform of this administration.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road secures an entrance into Chicago over the tracks of the Western Indiana Road for the sum of $100,000 per annum. The contract takes effect December 1 next.

By the latest returns of the agricultural department, the leading farm products of the country amount to $4,014,000,000 yearly. That alone, independently of manufactures, fisheries, etc., represents an average income of $70 a year for every man, woman, and child in the country.

Among the queer names in the Chicago directory for this year are the following: Woggow, Smrz, Smalkivoiez, Smuczynski, Hop Wow, Yshiok, Yskis, Zwierzchouska, Szelmochowski and Trjnak. All of these names can be found in the procession of the socialists.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat don't like "the last Chicago directory." So sorry it don't please. Send it back and your money will be refunded.—Inter Ocean.

Everybody knows, or should know, at least, that don't is a contradiction of do not. How, then, would the Inter Ocean like to have its lines read, "The St. Louis Globe-Democrat do not like," etc?

It has been decided by the overseers at Harvard that $1,200 a year is plenty for a student to spend at that university. This ruling is only necessary for that class of students who go there simply for the name of the thing. Those who attend the university for the purpose of getting an education which shall be an advantage to them, never spend $1,200 a year.

Another calamity has visited Hurley. On Saturday night a fire broke out in the theater and spread so rapidly that all effort to subdue it were utterly fruitless. Before the fire ceased its deadly work nearly the whole of the business portion of the city was in ashes. The loss will foot up some $400,000, and the lives lost in the theatre are known to be at least eleven.

Mr. Cleveland is a Jacksonian in one respect. He believes in giving the spoils of office to the victors. But General Jackson never would back down and in this respect, Mr. Cleveland is no Jacksonian. If Jackson had made up his mind to go to St. Louis, he would go, and not stand on the order of his going. Jackson never could march up hill and then march down again. Cleveland can do it very easily.

Sam. Jones lectured in Baltimore the other night, charging an admission fee of fifty cents. As he looked at the hundred old men and women who were gathered before him, instead of the five or six thousand who have usually listened to him in that city, he exclaimed, "Good Lord! how a fifty-cent admission thins them out." Sam is a funny preacher for revenue only. People hear him when they can hear him for nothing; but nothing that he can say is worth fifty cents to hear.

The spirit of the "new south" as illustrated by the following incident: Leonard W. Bacon, formerly of Connecticut, and now pastor of the Independent Presbyterian church, of Savannah, Ga., preaches a sermon in which he speaks of Washington, Lincoln and Grant as the saviours of this country. Result: His southern hearers take offence at his remarks; one of them leaves church in high dudgeon while he is speaking; the services ended the congregation emphasize their condemnation of his allusion to Lincoln and Grant as saviours of their country, neglect to go forward as is their habit to the altar and exchange civilities with their pastor. Dr. Bacon could not have understood the sentiment of the "new south," if he thought he could speak of Lincoln and Grant in Savannah as being saviours of their country without creating offence. The south is the same old wolf, but in sheep's clothing.

A dispatch from Oshkosh to the Milwaukee Sentinel, says the Times of Sunday published copious extracts from the testimony given by Dr. Wigginton in the Hazletine murder trial, which occurred at Stevens Point last October. The object of the publication is to show that Dr. Wigginton was removed from the Northern Insane hospital for incompetency. The statement is further made that the board of supervision was cognizant of Dr. Wigginton's incompetency, and that he was not reappointed a year ago in order that his official term might be in such a condition as to permit of his removal at any time when his successor should be chosen. The extracts from Dr. Wigginton's testimony cover a portion of the cross-examination of him by Attorney Fethers, of Janesville. The points touched upon are used to show that Dr. Wigginton was unable to name the different types of insanity; that when asked to name the different faculties of the mind, he gave "music" as one of them. His definition of psychology was that it was "mythological insanity." Dr. Wigginton's testimony on the trial covered nearly 100 pages of type writing. Senator Voorhees, senior counsel for the defense, whose witness Wigginton was, was disgusted at his ignorance. He inquired after the trial how it happened that so incapable a man should be placed in a position of so much responsibility.

"AN EPITOMIZED HELL."

There is a good deal of excitement in Georgia growing out of the convict labor system in that state. The most sensational developments are expected at any moment. For many years the convict labor of Georgia has been a disgrace to the state; and the Rev. Dr. Felton told the legislature of Georgia last year that the system was nothing less than "an epitomized hell." Black as the blot has been on Georgia, some of the best known men of the state have been permanently connected with the crime. Among these, so an Atlanta dispatch says, are United States Senator Joseph E. Brown, ex-Governor James M Smith, William B. Lowe, and James W. English. Senator Brown leases a large number of convicts, who are worked" in the venerable and pious Senator's mines in Dade county. Ex-Governor Smith has a large force at work on his Oglethorpe farm and a discussion of the question of leasing convicts has again arisen from the fact that a duel is imminent between ex-Governor Smith and Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland, the physician whose duty it is to look after the wards of the state.

The legislature of Georgia is now in session, and as the leasing of the convict labor in the state has been notoriously disgraceful, the system will probably be abolished. There is nothing in the history of European prisons of John Howard's time that is more terrible than the stories that come from Georgia. The principle of the leasing system has not only been shameful, but many of the convicts have been inhumanly treated. Here is a picture of the system reported to the legislature:

One man who lost his shoes was made to walk barefoot over hot bricks and was afterward beaten with a leather trace strap because he complained of the keeper's cruelty. In one instance the convicts were frozen so badly that some of them died and others lost the use of their limbs. In one case a convict's feet were frozen so that the toes dropped off. Badly cooked rations, spoiled meat, unclean and horribly ventilated quarters made the death rate appallingly high. Epidemics were, of course, by no means uncommon. Complaint was followed by additional cruel treatment. Men and women were sometimes chained together, whites and blacks alike, and made to work from daylight until dark.

While so many of the politicians of the state were either directly or indirectly interested in criminal employment of convicts, Governor Gordon is highly commended for the altitude he has taken in this matter. If he can have his way, and if public sentiment will command decent respect, the system will be totally wiped out.

A STRANGE PHENOMENON.

A Floating Ball of Fire Terrifies a Household.

DETROIT, Mich., July 11.—A curious and frightful phenomenon occurred Saturday afternoon during a rainstorm. It was in the shape of an intensely brilliant ball of electric fire, and greatly frightened the family of Captain J. T. Patton, 38 Hancock avenue. Hearing a strange noise, Miss Patton entered the darkened sitting-room just in time to see a blazing ball of fire, which she subsequently described as larger than a cocoanut, burst through the wall paper from the chimney. Mrs. Patton saw it about the same time. The strange visitor floated slowly around the room with the buoyancy of a toy balloon, emitting a hissing sound and throwing an awful glare on the surroundings. Clouds of soot burst out from the chimney with it, and floating in the weird light made the spectacle more unearthly. The ladies, full of terror, placed their hands over their eyes and turned from the sight. Just then Mrs. Frank Frisbie, who lives across the street, ran over for a short call. She opened the door, a draught was created, and the blazing visitor darted out. Mrs. Frisbie, almost paralyzed with fear, dodged just in time, and the ball, with a loud hiss, swooped out of the door and disappeared. One side of Mrs. Frisbie's face was blackened by the soot as the ball passed her. About $1,000 worth of damage was done.

PERISHED IN THE FLAMES

A THEATER HORROR AT HURLEY, WIS.

Ten Lives Known to be Lost—Twenty-seven People Drowned from a Sloop—Casualties.

HURLEY, Wis., July 11.—Saturday evening Hurley was the scene of a serious conflagration, resulting in terrible loss of life and property. The fire started on the stage of the Alcazar theater, about 8 o'clock in the evening, and spread so rapidly that in a few minutes the whole building was in flames. The fire jumped from building to building in quick succession, until in a short time the whole of the business portion of the town between Third and Fifth avenues, was a mass of flames.

The fire department was called out and the water works company forced water through the mains which have recently been laid in the principal streets of the town, but all efforts toward stopping the progress of the destructive element was unavailing.

The fire broke out shortly before the opening of the performance, and only a small audience had assembled at the place.

When the alarm of fire was given several of the actors rushed up-stairs to their rooms for the purpose of saving their valuables, but the flames overtook them and prevented their escape.

The following inmates of the house perished:

SADIE WELLS.
LOTTIE MOORE.
MINNIE GIFFORD.
JENNIE ALLEN.
MABEL HALEY.
LAURA BRAINERD.
SADIE MCCABE.
WILLIAM JACKSON.
J. W. VANQUICK.
SAMUEL HALEY.

JOHN JARRETT, the stage carpenter, was badly burned, and is not expected to live.

MABEL POWELL jumped from a third-story window and was injured so badly that she is not expected to recover.

JENNIE SHERIDAN also leaped from the third story and received serious injuries.

SADIE WELLS appeared for a moment, but the floor under her gave way and she was seen no more.

JENNIE SHERIDAN says that she tried to force Miss Wells to leap from the window, but the latter delayed until it was too late to escape, and the floor fell in, taking her and several others with her.

The theater was a large frame structure, and was totally enveloped in flames in ten minutes after the fire broke out. If the conflagration had occurred half an hour later hundreds of people would no doubt have lost their lives, as the place was a popular resort with the miners. Before the fire could be controlled seven blocks, comprising eighty buildings, were consumed.

This fire, together with the one last week, destroys nearly all of the business portion of the town, leaving only a few stores standing. Both sides of Silver street and both sides of Copper street were burned for a distance of three blocks.

The losses of this fire will aggregate $450,000, which is covered by an insurance of about $50,000. The losses of the two fires will amount to nearly $600,000.

The Alcazar at Hurley is well known to the police of the West as one of the vile dens of that village, where young girls are sent from Chicago and other cities, under pretense of securing a theatrical engagement. The story of how the girls who go to Hurley are treated, and the manner of their life, are too horrible for even suggestion, and the calamity that has overtaken some of the victims in the Alcazar is softened in its horror by the thought that, fearful as their death was, it could not have been worse than the life they led, and the flame that wrapped them in its embrace was not so savage in its possession as the soulless villains they depended on for existence.

Twenty-Seven Persons Drowned.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The sloop Mystery, with a party of excursionists on board, was capsized off Barren island at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening. The tide was tearing out more rapidly than a mill-race, and a land breeze that was almost a gale gave a white curl to the waters. The sloop had started to come about, but the bigness of her load—there being nearly twenty-five persons on her—caused delay. Then a squall struck her and over she went, and men, women and children being thrown into the water. The tug-boat Dean was not far from the Mystery when she capsized, and was directed toward the unfortunate excursionists. The tug had difficulty in getting near the sloop. Two of the passengers fastened life-lines to their waists, sprang overboard and brought on to the tug a woman and two little girls, who were unconscious. Three struggling women and two men were rescued. The wind blew so hard that the tug was unable to do more, and the upset sloop and the rest of her ill-fated passengers, numbering over twenty, were hurried out to sea by the rising tide. Efforts were made to revive the unconscious woman and two girls and it was found that they were dead. One of the rescued persons said there were from thirty to thirty-five persons, mostly women and children, on the yacht when she capsized. Of this number only the five mentioned above are known to have been saved. It is possible that a few others were picked up, but not probable, as the tide was running too swiftly for them to keep afloat long.

The Mystery's load was principally women and children and the men were on the other boats. This adds to the confusion and difficulty in finding out who was aboard, who are saved and who are missing. The excitement and confusion were so great that even the identifications of the recovered bodies were contradictory and uncertain. A boy who was picked up by the colored man said that he was with two families, consisting of six persons. He said their names were John Engel of Meserole street and Christopher Klutz of Lorimer street. He sought them everywhere, but was not able to find them.

Among those lost are the following:

JAMES BURGESS of Hoyt street, Brooklyn, and child.
MARKS STARK, wife, and one child.
MARY BRENDELL, a widow, 42 years old, of 336 Hushwick avenue, Brooklyn.
MRS. WILLIAMS of Williamsburg, whose body was identified.
CAPT. DAVID HENDERSON and his son.
MRS. JOHN O'BRIEN and three children.

Fatal Lightning.

JACKSON, Miss., July 11.—Maggie Harper, a negro woman, was struck and instantly killed by lightning Saturday. She was walking on a side street, not near any building or person. Her shoes and part of her clothing were torn in shreds. A half-dozen holes were made in the ground where she stood, just as though a peg had been driven in and withdrawn.

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind., July 11.—Deputy Postmaster Will E. Post was struck and instantly killed by lightning Saturday. Mr. Post was about 21 years of ago.

Earthquake in South Carolina.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 11.—A slight tremor of earth accompanied by the usual roar occurred here Sunday at 1:15 p. m., both being generally observed but causing no alarm. The disturbance was stronger at Summerville. It was felt in other places in the lower portion of the State, and was so decided at Augusta, Ga., as to cause people to run out of the churches. The latest preceding tremor occurred about two weeks ago, but attracted little attention.

AN INDIAN SCRIMMAGE.

Six Kickapoos in St. Louis Fight a Crowd —Three Shot.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 11.—One of six Kickapoo Indians who have been camping in South St. Louis and selling moccasins and other Indian wares attempted to whip a white boy who was pestering and plaguing him on the 4th, when John Rose, a rolling-mill hand, interfered and gave the Indian a thrashing. About 6 o'clock Sunday evening the Indian and a companion met Rose on the street, near the Star of the West hotel, and made at him with knives. Rose pulled a revolver and shot one of them through the body. The other hastened to camp and brought the rest of the Indians into town, armed with Winchester rifles. Rose and two or three of his friends went into a second-story room of the hotel, and when the Indians approached near enough opened fire on them with revolvers and brought two of them to the ground, severely wounded. The remainder of the Indians then began shooting promiscuously, and fired into the hotel and surrounding houses.

Great alarm seized the people in the vicinity, and almost immediately hundreds of them were fleeing from their houses, running to the hillside near by and taking shelter wherever they could. A few moments later a number of citizens armed themselves and, with the aid of the police, drove the Indians to the camp, but they would not surrender. Grey Eagle and another stalwart buck marched up and down before their tent, and, with their sixteen shooters, held the crowd at bay. The Indians had carried two of their wounded to camp, and they being so seriously hurt the others finally sent for or permitted a doctor to enter the tent. The whole party then surrendered, and the wounded were sent to the hospital. Grey Eagle, Black Hawk, and Moosehead were locked up.

During the melee the Indians fired numerous shots, but, luckily, did not hit anybody, and the excitement, which was intense for a time, gradually subsided. The wounded Indians are Pawnee Tom, Indian Charlie, and Little Chief, two of whom will probably die. Rose, it is said, gave himself up to the police.

Now They Say He Will Go.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Those who claim to know say the President is still exercised over the miscarriage of the latter conveying the executive's refusal to visit St. Louis in September, and the failure has given new life to the gossip regarding the original controversy. In the statements given out at the White House yesterday the information that Mr. Cleveland, as a result of the St. Louis fiasco, has abandoned the intention of taking any Western trip is made prominent. Those who presume to be well informed, however, do not believe the President will give up his plans for the summer and fall. It is well known that he had an elaborate programme of travel prepared, and a high official said yesterday that it would be lived up to. The President, he said, would be urged to go to St. Louis during fair week in October and will accept. He will proceed from St. Louis to the other points, as originally intended. Mrs. Cleveland will accompany him.

The Illinois Second in Camp.

CHICAGO, July 11.—The 2d regiment, about eight hundred strong, left for Camp Lincoln, near Springfield, where it goes into camp for a week. The regiment is in command of Col. Wheeler, and fully 90 per cent. of the members have turned out. The boys will have a monopoly of the camp until next Saturday, when they will strike their tents and start for home. The week will be occupied in drill and camp routine, and, while there will be lots of hard work, the young soldiers will, doubtless, find enough time on leave to have some fun in Springfield.

The Arms to Be Taken Away.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—It is understood that Gens. Ordway and Benet are opposed to granting the request of the National Rifles for permission to retain their arms furnished by the Government without enrolling the company in the district militia. It is probable that Secretary Endicott will decide against the company's request, as recommended by Ordway and Benet. The company was especially anxious to retain its arms until after the Chicago and Louisville drills, in order to compete for the prizes at each place.

CHICAGO, July 11.—About 5 o'clock Sunday morning fire broke out in the saloon at 1092 Milwaukee avenue, owned and occupied by William Reiser. Just as the flames got fairly started Mrs. Reiser lost her head and jumped from the second-story window, receiving severe internal injuries. There was no hydrant within a mile of the place, and it was with the greatest difficulty that water could be obtained. The total loss is $18,975; insurance, $8,100.

CROPS OF THE COUNTRY.

REPORT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

An Extension of the Corn Area—Damage by the Chinch Bug—Grain and Vegetables.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The statistician of the Department of Agriculture reports a further extension of the corn area of about 1,500,000 acres, an increase of 2 per cent. over the acreage of 1886. It states that in the face of declining wheat culture, maize has advanced its area largely, notably in Kansas. A marked advance is noted in the district between the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains, and a considerable increase is reported in the cotton States. The season has been fairly favorable, both for planting and growing, and the condition is high, averaging 95.7, which differs little from the July condition of the past three years, and is materially higher than for the three years preceding 1884. The great corn-growing States, which furnish the surplus, average nearly 99 in condition. The condition of winter wheat on the 1st of July, or at the time of harvest for the more southern States, is 83.5, a reduction since the June report of 1.4. There has been a heavy decline in Kansas and a material reduction in California, with some loss in several of the southern States. Some of the remainder have gained a point or two, and others have lost.

The chinch-bug has wrought some damage in most of the Western States and in Maryland and Virginia. Where harvested grain has been threshed, results are variable, with plump, sound grain in some localities, and a shrunken berry indicated in others. There is reported a somewhat serious decline in the condition of Spring wheat, largely from the prevalence of chinch-bugs. General average 79.3; last month 87.3, a decline of 8 points. Condition in July of 1886 was 83.3, four points higher than the present average. The average for Wisconsin is 77; Minnesota, 76; Iowa, 72; Nebraska, 75; Dakota, 87. The chinch-bug, the Hessian fly, the grasshopper in the Northwest and the joint worm in West Virginia have all aided in the reduction of the yield of wheat. The average condition of winter rye is 88; that of spring rye, 84.3, showing a decline in condition since the last report. The average for barley is likewise reduced. It is 82.8, against 88.9 last month. The decline is mainly in the West. A reduction appears in oats from 91 in June to 85.9, due to drought and insect ravages. It is the heaviest in Kentucky, Illinois, Wisconsin and the States west of the Mississippi.

There has been an increase of 2.7 per cent. in the acreage of potatoes, the largest rate of advance being in Dakota, Kansas and Nebraska. The condition average is 95, which is a little below the July averages of the previous three years. There is apparently a decline of about one-sixth in the tobacco area in which nearly all the tobacco-growing States participated. The average of condition is 84, a lower July figure than for several years. The status of the cotton crop has not declined since the last report. In the Southeast there is a slight reduction, compensated by small advance in the States west of the Mississippi. The average is 97, which is four points higher than the average for July in the previous ten years. It was exceeded in 1878 and 1880, and nearly equaled in July of 1881 and 1884, which were years of small production. There have been but two July records below 90 since 1878. The State averages are: Virginia, 98; North Carolina, 99; South Carolina, 97; Georgia, 96; Florida, 98; Alabama, 98; Mississippi, 99; Louisiana, 98; Texas, 95; Arkansas, 99; Tennessee, 98.

The crop is under unusually clean cultivation. There are few reports of injury from excessive moisture and few of drought. Cotton worms are indicated in very few locations.

The Outlook in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 11.—The Illinois Weather Service furnishes the following data concerning the effects of the weather upon the various crops for the last week. The temperature has been about the average for the corresponding portion of the past ten years, except in the counties south of the forty-first parallel bordering on the Mississippi river, where it was reported as slightly below the average. Local rains are reported from all sections of the State; the various amounts ranging from one-fourth to two and one-half inches, the greater amounts being reported from the extreme northern counties. The percentage of sunshine for the State was about the average for the corresponding period of the past ten years.

Corn is in an excellent condition in the northern and central grand divisions except in Shelby county, where the chinch-bugs are reported as doing great damage to this crop. It is in a fair condition only in the southern grand division, owing to the continued ravages of the chinch-bugs. About two-thirds of the oats crop has been harvested, the yield being light in the northern, nearly an average in the central and slightly above the average yield in the southern grand division. Latest advices from the southern grand division state that the wheat crop will not make more than 75 per cent. of an average yield per acre. Pasture lands are in a fair condition in the southern, but greatly deficient in the northern and central divisions. More rain is needed in all sections of the State to improve crops.

Testing the Sunday Law.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 11.—The report that the Sunday law in reference to base ball would be rigidly enforced attracted the largest crowd of the season to Sportsman park Sunday afternoon, a game between the Browns and Baltimores being on. The first inning had been played, when an officer approached President Von der Ahe and ordered him to stop the game. He refused to do so, and was promptly arrested. Another officer then tapped Bob Ferguson, the umpire, on the shoulder and told him that the game must stop. Ferguson at once quietly walked off the field. Von der Ahe was taken to the Fair Grounds Police Station, where he gave bond for his appearance on Wednesday, when the validity of the law will be tested.

Cut His Wrists With a Razor.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 11.—Sterne Chittenden, Esq., of New York, brother of the Rev. Richard L. Chittenden, of the Episcopal church, Paradise, this county, committed suicide in a chicken-yard on his brother's premises last evening by cutting his throat and both wrists with a razor. He died in a few minutes afterward. Mr. Chittenden was thought to be of unsound mind. He was about 55 years of age, a bachelor, and said to have been a prominent lawyer.

Indicted as an Eavesdropper.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 11.—Assistant District Attorney Kinsey sent in to the grand jury yesterday an indictment against Louisa Eberline; that since the 21st of June, 1886, she was and is a common eavesdropper. The offense set out in this indictment is the common law one of eavesdropping, and there is no known record of such an indictment ever having been prepared in this city. The grand jury found the bill true.

An End to Bone Scraping.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Buckleu's Arnica Salve at 25 cents per box, by Frank Sherer & Co.

THE HAWAIIANS REVOLT.

THE THREATENED REVOLUTION ACCOMPLISHED.

King Kalakaua Accedes to Every Demand and is Yet on the Throne—Foreign News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 11.—The steamship Mariposa, from Australia has arrived here, having touched at the Hawaiian Islands. She brings information that the expected revolution in the Hawaiian Kingdom has taken place. The populace demanded the downfall of the ministry and the abdication of the King. The residents of Honolulu and the surrounding country assumed the powers of the government. The volunteer and military forces of the kingdom are in sympathy. As a result the Gibson ministry has fallen, and a cabinet named by the people, headed by William M. Green, has been appointed. King Kalakaua is permitted to remain on the throne, although divested of all present power, having acceded to the demand for a new constitution and agreed to abide by the will of the people.

The King was thoroughly alarmed, and on July 1 called a meeting of the American Minister, the British, French, and Portuguese Commissioners, to whom he offered to transfer pro tem. the powers vested in him as King. These officials refused to accept the trust, but advised the King to lose no time in framing a new constitution, which advice he followed. Walter M. Gibson and his son-in-law, F. H. Hayselden, are under arrest, having been seized by the civic troops when attempting to escape. The populace assumed control of affairs in the kingdom on June 25, being joined by the Honolulu Rifles and other companies. Patrols were established throughout the city and all the armories guarded.

On the afternoon of June 30 an immense meeting was held and was addressed in English, Hawaiian, and Portuguese. All stores and shops had been closed, and nearly every one that could go attended the meeting. The approaches to the palace were barricaded, but the royal troops made no sign of meeting the volunteer troops. The Honolulu Rifles were under arms. On the armory walls were displayed the Hawaiian, American and English flags. Resolutions were adopted setting forth that the administration of the Hawaiian Government had ceased, through corruption and incompetency, to perform its functions and afford protection to personal property rights, for which all governments exist. The meeting formulated a demand on King Kalakaua that he at once dismiss his present Cabinet, and that he call one of persons, mentioned by name, to assist him in selecting a new one, which should be committed to the policy of securing a new constitution; that Walter M. Gibson be dismissed from each and every office held by him under the government. Another demand was that the King make restitution of $71,000 of bribe money and dismiss the register of conveyances. It was also demanded that the King give a specific pledge that he would not in future interfere either directly or indirectly with the election of representatives, and that he would abstain from unduly influencing legislation. These demands were submitted to the King. The Gibson Ministry, the members of which had heard the news, immediately resigned.

On Friday, July 1, the steamship Mariposa arrived from Australia, bringing 200 stand of arms consigned to Minister Gibson. These were seized and stored in the armory of the Honolulu rifles. After conferring with the representatives of the foreign governments on July 1 King Kalakaua formally appointed William L. Green Prime Minister of Foreign Affairs, who completed the Cabinet as follows: L. A. Thurston, Minister of the Interior; Godfrey Brown, Minister of Finance, and C. V. Ashford, Attorney General.

In surrendering to the demand of the populace King Kalakaua acceded to every request, assuring the people that "we are, and shall at all times be, anxious and ready to co-operate with our councilors and our advisers, as well as with our intelligent and patriotic citizens, in all matters touching the honor, welfare and prosperity of our kingdom."

What course the revolutionists will now take is not known. The answer of the King was accepted as an absolute concession of every demand made. It is believed that Kalakaua will be allowed to remain on the throne, but fears were expressed that Gibson and other members of the Cabinet will lose their lives.

The Queen Reviews Her Troops.

LONDON, July 11.—The Queen Saturday reviewed 60,000 troops at Aldershot. Her Majesty was received with great enthusiasm. A large number of stands had been erected at the point of review, and they were all crowded with fashionable and prominent people. Many volunteers who took part in the review came from long distances and traveled all night in order to be present at the review. The whole spectacle was very imposing and the review was a great success. The Duke of Cambridge, on behalf of the troops, presented Her Majesty with a jubilee address, the men cheering heartily during the presentation. The marching of the men was splendid. The guards, marines and volunteers were loudly cheered by the spectators.

THE DEPOSED PRIEST.

Dr. McGlynn Makes an Address in New York.

NEW YORK, July 11.—It was expected that the excommunication of Dr. McGlynn would be announced from the altars of the Catholic churches in this diocese Sunday, but no such announcement was made. A number of parishioners of St. Stephen's Church, of which Dr. McGlynn was pastor, said that if the announcement of his excommunication was made they would rise and leave the church. A largely attended meeting of the deposed priest's admirers was held in the Academy of Music at night. J. A. Gahan, of the Catholic Herald, presided. Dr. McGlynn was received with tremendous applause when he appeared. He said it was notorious that religion was vanishing fast, the Catholic countries falling into atheism and crime more readily than others. The papacy, he declared, was a machine with nothing but the cupidity and lust for money and power, and the knowledge of that fact was ruining Catholic countries. It was true he had for many years been aware of these facts, but he had remained silent in order that he might be allowed to continue preaching and enjoy priestly communion. It was slander to say he was a politician; he had never appeared on a political platform. The nearest approach he ever made to making a political speech was once when, in speaking of the Catholic church to a friend, he said something in favor of Cleveland.

Gen. Drum's Health.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The reports about Adjt.-Gen. Drum's failing health amuse those who have known him for years. He has always been eccentric but withal good hearted and generous to a fault in his social and domestic relations. His health has never been robust, but he has not suffered any accession to his ailments, principally dyspepsia, lately.

In Brief and to The Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existance. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular hours, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

Many of the good things of this life are sorrowfully let alone on account of Dyspepsia. Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation; sold on a positive guarantee at 25 and 50 cents, by Sold by Prentice & Evenson, O. P. O

A FATHER'S GRIEF.

He Faints in a Court-Room Where His Son Is on Trial.

MONTREAL, Canada, July 10.—A painful scene was witnessed in court yesterday in the case of Herbert H. Taylor, charged with forging the name of James G. Blaine of Maine. While the case was proceeding the father of the accused youth arrived unexpectedly from Worcester, Mass. He entered the room hesitatingly, and, his eyes meeting those of his son, who was sitting near a table, he cast upon him a severe and inquisitive look, at the same time appearing to be himself deeply moved with grief. The young man at once hid his face with his hands, but his father approached, took hold of his right hand and held it for a few moments, gazing in silence at his son. Overcome with emotion, the senior Taylor then took a seat, in a remote part of the room and began to sob. The young man also burst into tears, and leaning over the table wept bitterly. Mr. Doucet offered Mr. Taylor a private interview with his son, but when Herbert rose to follow his father to an adjoining room the latter was so overcome that he fainted and fell to the floor. He was carried into the next room, but soon recovered, and after a short interview both father and son returned, and the inquiry was continued.

Publicly Caned for a Challenge.

EL PASO, Texas, July 11.—A sensation was caused here by Sheriff James H. White of this city publicly caning E. R. Fox, a prominent stone-mason and contractor. The caning was the sheriff's reply to a challenge which Fox sent him, to meet him across the Rio Grande, and at ten paces prove who was the coward and liar. Fox added that secrecy would be necessary, and appointed a place of meeting to settle details. The sheriff intended to ignore the challenge, but while walking down the principal street he happened to meet Fox, who came up to him, evidently to arrange for the affair of honor. White promptly told Fox what he thought of him, and wound up by slapping him in the face and breaking a small cane over his head. Fox struck White once with his fist, and the two men then walked away from each other. Fox is hot-tempered, and it is feared that more trouble will follow. Sheriff White is a man of medium size, but he is one of the bravest men in the West. Ordinarily he is one of the mildest-mannered men to be found, though but few men care to provoke his wrath.

Another Cattle Quarantine.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 11.—Gov. Oglesby issued a proclamation Saturday scheduling for quarantine the district of Chicago which is already under quarantine restrictions, for the purpose of putting into effect the provisions of the new law enacted by the Thirty-fifth General Assembly. A new feature of this quarantine is that the Governor prohibits "all domestic animals of bovine species within said district from being moved from one premises to another, or over any public highway, or any unfenced lot or piece of ground, or from being brought into or taken from said district, except upon obtaining a special permit signed by the Board of Live Stock Commissioners or some member thereof, or agent or officer of the Board, authorized to issue such permits."

North Carolina Negroes Aroused.

TARBORO, N. C., July 11.—There is much excitement in this vicinity and in Whittaker's among the negroes over the recent lynching of the colored man, Augustin Hart, for assaulting a young white woman. Hart was popular with the negroes, and they allege that he was lynched on insufficient evidence. It has been ascertained that the negroes have planned as a retaliatory measure the lynching of the young lady, the victim of the assault. This causes wild excitement here, and already white men have placed a guard about the house in which the young lady lives. Nearly every white man around Whittaker's is armed to the teeth and trouble is feared.

Highway Robbers to be Shot.

EL PASO, Texas, July 11.—John Vanston and J. H. Clum, Americans, have been arrested at Paso del Norte, Mexico, for sandbagging and highway robbery. They belong to a gang who have been working Paso del Norte for months, and are wanted for other desperate crimes. They were arrested in the act of "holding up" two soldiers. The Mexican code makes highway robbery a capital crime, and they will be shot, as the evidence is clear against them.

Drowned Her Babe in a Wash-Basin.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Mary C. Mason, a girl 17 years of age, Saturday morning drowned a new-born babe in a wash-basin at 158 West Monroe street. She has lived until three weeks ago at Wenona, Marshall county, and refuses to disclose the name of the child's father. When the police came to the house the woman was dressed and walking around.

Breaking Down and Building Up.

When a man breaks down in the matter of physical strength, the question of its recovery depends in a great measure upon the length of time he allows to elapse before adopting medicinal means to recuperate it. A tonic, which gives speedy and powerful impulse to the process of digestion and assimilation, is the best auxiliary he can employ, and he should resort to it promptly. The most reliable dependence of the feeble, the aged and the nervous, has ever proved to be Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an invigorant of national reputation and proven worth, commended by medical men of distinction, not only for building up a broken-down system, but as a remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, fever and ague and kidney trouble. While not claimed to be a panacea, it is a most useful and comprehensive household remedy. It is, moreover, eminently safe as well as effective.

Babies that are fretful, peevish, cross, or troubled with Windy Colic, Teething Pains, or Stomach Disorders, can be relieved at once by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no Opium or Morphine, hence is safe. Price 25 cents. Sold by Sold by Prentice & Evenson O. P. O

FROM DUNGEON TO PALACE

DR. TALMAGE PREACHES AT THE HAMPTONS.

Morbid and Sickly Ideas of Death—The Way Out of This World Should be the Most Cheerful Passage in All a Christian's History.

THE HAMPTONS, July 10.—The Brooklyn Tabernacle being closed for enlargement, the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D., pastor, spent his first Sabbath away from his flock the present season at this summer home. His subject for today was, "From Dungeon to Palace," and his text, "The time of my departure is at hand"—II Timothy iv, 6.

The way out of this world is so blocked up with coffin and hearse, and undertaker's spade and screwdriver, that the Christian can hardly think as he ought of the most cheerful passage in all his history. We hang black instead of white over the place where the good man gets his last victory. We stand weeping over a heap of chains which the freed soul has shaken off, and we say: "Poor man! What a pity it was he had to come to this!" Come to what? By the time the people have assembled at the obsequies that man has been three days so happy that all the joy of earth accumulated would be wretchedness beside it, and he might better weep over you because you have to stay, than you weep over him because he has to go. It is a fortunate thing that a good man does not have to wait to see his own obsequies, they would be so discordant with his own experience. If the Israelites should go back to Egypt and moisten over the brick kilns they once left, they would not be any more silly than that Christian who should forsake heaven and come down and mourn because he had to leave this world. Our ideas of the Christian's death are morbid and sickly. We look upon it as a dark hole, in which a man stumbles when his breath gives out. This whole subject is odorous with varnish and disinfectants, instead of being sweet with mignonette. Paul, in my text, takes that great clod of a word, "death," and throws it away, and speaks of his "departure"—a beautiful, bright, suggestive word, descriptive of every Christian's release.

Now, departure implies a starting place and a place of destination. When Paul left this world what was the starting point? It was a scene of great paysical distress. It was the Tullianum, the lower dungeon of the Mamertine prison. The top dungeon was bad enough, it having no means of ingress or egress but through an opening in the top. Through that the prisoner was lowered, and through that came all the food and air and light received. It was a terrible place, that upper dungeon; but the Tullianum was the lower dungeon, and that was still more wretched, the only light and the only air coming through the roof, and that roof the floor of the upper dungeon. That was Paul's last earthly residence. It was a dungeon just six feet and a half high. It was a doleful place. It had the chill of long centuries of dampness. It was filthy with the long incarceration of miserable wretches. It was there that Paul spent his last days on earth, and it is there that I see him today, in the fearful dungeon, shivering, blue with the cold, waiting for that old overcoat which he had sent for up to Troas, and which they had not yet sent down, notwithstanding he had written for it.

If some skillful surgeon should go into that dungeon where Paul is incarcerated, we might find out what are the prospects of Paul's living through the rough imprisonment. In the first place, he is an old man, only two years short of 70. At that very time when he most needs the warmth and the sunlight and the fresh air, he is shut out from the sun. What are those scars on his ankles? Why those were gotten when he was fast, his feet in the stocks. Every time he turned the flesh on his ankles started. What are those scars on his back? You know he was whipped five times, each time getting thirty-nine strokes—195 bruises on the back (count them) made by the Jews with rods of elmwood, each one of the 195 strokes bringing the blood. Look at Paul's face and look at his arms. Where did he get those bruises? I think it was when he was struggling ashore amidst the shivered timbers of the shipwreck. I see a gash in Paul's side. Where did he get that? I think he got that in the tussle with highwaymen, for he had been in peril of robbers and he had money of his own. He was a mechanic as well as an apostle, and I think the tents he made were as good as his sermons.

There is a wanness about Paul's looks. What makes that? I think a part of that came from the fact that he was for twenty-four hours on a plank in the Mediterranean sea, suffering terribly, before he was rescued; for he says positively: "I was a night and a day in the deep." Oh, worn out, emaciated old man! surely you must be melancholy. No constitution could endure this and be cheerful. But I press my way through the prison until I come up close to where he is, and by the faint light that streams through the opening I see on his face a supernatural joy, and I bow before him, and I say: "Aged man, how can you keep cheerful amidst all this gloom?" His voice startles the darkness of the place as he cries out: "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand." Hark! what is that shuffling of feet in the upper dungeon? Why, Paul has an invitation to a banquet, and he is going to dine today with the king. Those shuffling feet are the feet of the executioners. They come, and they cry down through the hole of the dungeon: "Hurry up, old man. Come now; get yourself ready." Why, Paul was ready. He had nothing to pack up. He had no baggage to take. He had been ready a good while. I see him rising up, and straightening out his stiffened limbs, and pushing back his white hair from his creviced forehead, and see him looking up through the hole in the roof of the dungeon into the face of his executioner, and hear him say: "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand." Then they lift him out of the dungeon, and they start with him to the place of execution. They say: "Hurry along, old man, or you will feel the weight of our spear. Hurry along." "How far is it," says Paul, "we have to travel?" "Three miles." Three miles is a good way for an old man to travel after he has been whipped and crippled with maltreatment. But they soon get to the place of execution—Acquae Salvia—and he is fastened to the pillar of martyrdom. It does not take my strength to tie him fast, he makes no resistance. O Paul! why not strike for your life? You have a great many friends here. With that withered hand just launch the thunderbolt of the people upon those infamous soldiers. No! Paul was not going to interfere with his own coronation. He was too glad to go. I see him looking up into the face of his executioner, and, as the grim official draws the sword, Paul calmly says: "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand." But I put my hand over my eyes. I want not to see that last struggle. One sharp, keen stroke, and Paul does go to the banquet, and Paul does dine with the King.

What a transition it was! From the malaria of Rome to the finest climate in all the universe—the zone of eternal beauty and health. His ashes were put in the catacombs of Rome, but in one moment the air of heaven bathed from his soul the last ache. From shipwreck, from dungeon, from the biting pain of the elm wood rods, from the sharp sword of the headsman, he goes into the most brilliant assemblage of heaven, a king among kings, multitudes of the sainthood rushing out and stretching forth hands of welcome; for I do really think that as on the right hand of God is Christ, so on the right hand of Christ is Paul, the second great in heaven.

He changed kings likewise. Before the hour of death and up to the last moment he was under Nero, the thick necked, the cruel eyed, the filthy lipped; the sculptured features of that man bringing down to us to this very day the horrible possibilities of his nature—seated as he was amidst pictured marbles of Egypt, under a roof adorned with mother of pearl, in a dining room which by machinery was kept whirling day and night with most bewitching magnificence; his horses standing in stalls of solid gold, and the grounds around his palace lighted at night by its victims, who had been daubed with tar and pitch and then set fire to illumine the darkness. That was Paul's king. But the next moment he goes into the realm of Him whose reign is love, and whose courts are paved with love, and whose throne is set on pillars of love, and whose scepter is adorned with jewels of love, and whose palace is lighted with love, and whose lifetime is an eternity of love. When Paul was leaving so much on this side the pillar of martyrdom to gain so much on the other side, do you wonder at the cheerful valedictory of the text, "The time of my departure is at hand?"

Now, why cannot all the old people of this congregation have the same holy glee as that aged man had? Charles I, when he was combing his head, found a gray hair, and he sent it to the queen as a great joke; but old age is really no joke at all. For the last forty years you have been dreading that which ought to have been an exhilaration. You say you must fear the struggle at the moment the soul and body part. But millions have endured that moment, and why not we as well? They got through with it, and so can we. Besides this, all medical men agree in saying that there is probably no struggle at all at the last moment—not so much pain as the prick of a pin, the seeming signs of distress being altogether involuntary. But you say: "It is the uncertainty of the future." Now, child of God, do not play the infidel. After God has filled the Bible till it can hold no more with the stories of the good things ahead, better not talk about uncertainties.

But you say, "I cannot bear to think of parting from friends here." If you are old you have more friends in heaven than here. Just take the census. Take some large sheet of paper and begin to record the names of those who have emigrated to the other shore; the companions of your school days, your early business associates, the friends of mid life and those who more recently went away. Can it be that they have been gone so long you do not care any more about them and you do not want their society? Oh, no! There have been days when you have felt that you could not endure it another moment away from their blessed companionship. They have gone. You say you would not like to bring them back to this world of trouble, even if you had the power. It would not do to trust you. God would not give you resurrection power. Before to-morrow morning you would be rattling at the gates of the cemetery, crying to the departed: "Come back to the cradle where you slept! Come back to the hall where you used to play! Come back to the table where you used to sit!" and there would be a great burglary in heaven. No, no! God will not trust you with resurrection power, but he compromises the matter and says: "You cannot bring them where you are, but you can go where they are." There are more lovely now than ever. Were they beautiful here they are more beautiful there.

Beside that, it is more healthy there for you than here, aged man; better climate there than these hot summers and cold winters and late springs; better hearing; better eye sight; more tonic in the air; more perfume in the bloom; more sweetness in the song. Do you not feel, aged man, sometimes, as though you would like to get your arm and foot free? Do you not feel as though you like to throw away spectacles and canes and crutches? Would you not like to feel the spring and elasticity and mirth of an eternal boyhood? When the point at which you start from this world is old age, and the point to which you go is eternal juvenescence, aged man, clap your hands at the anticipation, and say, in perfect rapture of soul: "The time of my departure is at hand."

I remark, again, all those ought to feel this joy of the text who have a holy curiosity to know what is beyond this earthly terminus. And who has not any curiosity about it? Paul, I suppose, had the most satisfactory view of heaven, and he says: "It doth not yet appear what we shall be." It is like looking through a broken telescope: "Now we see through a glass darkly." Can you tell me anything about that heavenly place? You ask me a thousand questions about it that I cannot answer. I ask you a thousand questions about it that you cannot answer. And do you wonder that Paul was so glad when martyrdom gave him a chance to go over and make discoveries in that blessed country?

I hope some day, by the grace of God, to go over and see for myself; but not now. No well man, no prospered man, I think, wants to go now. But the time will come, I think, when I shall go over. I want to see what they do there, and I want to see how they do it. I do not want to be looking through the gates ajar forever. I want them to swing open. There are 10,000 things I want explained—about you, about myself, about the government of this world, about God, about everything. We start in a plain path of what we know, and in a minute come up against a high wall of what we do not know. I wonder how it looks over there. Somebody tells me it is like a paved city—paved with gold; and another man tells me it is like a fountain, and it is like a tree, and it is like a triumphal procession, and the next man I meet tells me it is all figurative. I really want to know, after the body is resurrected, what they wear and what they eat; and I have an immeasurable curiosity to know what it is, and how it is, and where it is. Columbus risked his life to find this continent, and shall we shudder to go out on a voyage of discovery which shall reveal a vaster and more different country? John Franklin risked his life to find a passage between icebergs, and shall we dread to find a passage to eternal summer? Men in Switzerland travel up the heights of the Matterhorn with alpenstock and guides and rockets and ropes, and getting half way up, stumble and fall down in a horrible massacre. They just want to say they had been on the tops of those high peaks. And shall we fear to go out for the ascent of the eternal hills, which start a thousand miles beyond where stop the highest peaks of the Alps, and when in that ascent there is no peril? A man doomed to die stepped on the scaffold and said in joy: "Now, in ten minutes I will know the great secret." One minute after the vital functions ceased the little child that died last night in Montague street knew more than Jonathan Edwards, or St. Paul himself, before he died. Friends, the exit from this world or death, if you please to call it, to the Christian is glorious explanation. It is demonstration. It is illumination. It is sunburst. It is the opening of all the windows. It is shutting up the catechism of doubt and the unrolling of all the scrolls of positive and accurate information. Instead of standing at the foot of the ladder and looking up, it is standing at the top of the ladder and looking down. It is the last mystery taken out of botany, and geology, and astronomy, and theology. Oh, will it not be grand to have all questions answered? The perpetually recurring interrogation point changed for the mark of exclamation. All riddles solved. Who will fear to go out on that discovery, when all the questions are to be decided which we have been discussing all our lives? Who shall not clap his hands in the anticipation of that blessed country, if it be no better than through holy curiosity, crying: "The time of my departure is at hand."

I remark, again, we ought to have the joy of the text, because, leaving this world, we move into the best society of the universe. You see a great crowd of people in some street, and you say: "Who is passing there? What general, what prince is going up there?" Well, I see a great throng in heaven. I say: "Who is the focus of all that admiration? Who is the center of that glittering company?" It is Jesus, the champion of all worlds, the favorite of all ages. Do you know what is the first question the soul will ask when it comes through the gate of heaven? I think the first question will be: "Where is Jesus, the Saviour that pardoned my sin; that carried my sorrows; that fought my battles; that won my victories?" O radiant One! how I would like to see Thee! Thou of the manger, but without its humiliation; Thou of the cross, but without its pangs; Thou of the grave, but without its darkness.

The Bible intimates that we will talk with Jesus in heaven just as a brother talks with a brother. Now, what will you ask him first? I do not know. I can think what I would ask Paul first, if I saw him in heaven. I think I would like to hear him describe the storm that came upon the ship when there were 275 souls on the vessel, Paul being the only man on board cool enough to describe the storm. There is a fascination about a ship and the sea that I shall never get over, and I think I would like to hear him talk about that first. But when I meet my Lord Jesus Christ, of what shall I first delight to hear Him speak? Now I think what it is. I shall first want to hear the tragedy of his last hours; and then Luke's account of the crucifixion, and Mark's account of the crucifixion, and John's account of the crucifixion will be nothing, while from the living lips of Christ the story shall be told of the gloom that fell, and the devils that arose, and the fact that upon his endurance depended the rescue of a race; and there was darkness in the sky, and there was darkness in the soul, and the pain became more sharp, and the burdens became more heavy, until the mob began to swim away from the dying vision of Christ, and the cursing of the mob came to his ear more faintly, and his hands were fastened to the horizontal piece of the cross, and his feet were fastened to the perpendicular piece of the cross, and his head fell forward in a swoon as he uttered the last moan and cried: "It is finished!" All heaven will stop to listen until the story is done, and every harp will be put down, and every lip closed, and all eyes fixed upon the divine narrator, until the story is done; and then, at the tap of the baton, the eternal orchestra will rouse up; finger on string of harp, and lips to the mouth of trumpet, there shall roll forth the oratorio of the Messiah: "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive blessing, and riches, and honor, and glory, and power, world without end!"

What be endured, oh, who can tell,
To save our souls from death and hell!

When there was between Paul and that magnificent personage only the thinness of the sharp edge of the sword of the executioner, do you wonder that he wanted to go? Oh, my Lord Jesus, let one wave of that glory roll over this auditory! Hark! I hear the wedding bells of heaven ringing now. The marriage of the Lamb has come, and the bride hath made herself ready.

Catarrh to Consumption.

Catarrh in its destructive force stands next to and undoubtedly leads on to consumption. It is therefore singular that those afflicted with this fearful disease should not make it the object of their lives to rid themselves of it. Deceptive remedies concocted by ignorant pretenders to medical knowledge have weakened the confidence of the great majority of all sufferers in advertised remedies. They become resigned to a life of misery, rather than torture themselves with doubtful palliatives.

But this will never do. Catarrh must be met at every stage and combated with all our might In many cases the disease has assumed dangerous symptoms. The bones and cartilage of the nose, the organs of hearing, of seeing and of tasting so affected as to be useless, the uvula so elongated, the throat so inflamed, and irritated as to produce a constant and distressing cough.

Sanford's Radical Cure meets every phase of Catarrh, from a simple head cold to the most loathsome and destructive stages. It is local and constitutional. Instant in relieving, permanent in curing, safe, economical and never-failing.

Each package contains one bottle of the Radical cure, one box of Catarrhal Solvent, and an Improved Inhaler, with treatise; price, $1.

—Rock Legion, Select Knights, A. O. U. W., assemble in regular semi monthly meeting this evening—lodge room in the Lappin block, East Milwaukee street.

—St. Patrick's church will soon have as handsome an interior as could be desired. Frescoers and calciminers are making a decided improvement already.

—Those interested say that certain incendrary fires of one or two years ago, have been investigated with such success that the Janesville delegation at Waupun may soon be increased.

—F. S. Winslow's store is closed, Mr. Winslow having decided to take up some other line of business. His plans regarding the disposition of the stock have not yet been made public.

—George Anderson, of Waukesha, who won several prizes at Edgerton the other day, is anxious to shoot with F. P. Stannard. Stannard's friends are perfectly willing that he should.

—Saturday night was a great one for "scrimmages." One young man tried to run Stillson's saloon, while two or three others tried to do the same with Fox Hall. Both attempts failed.

—There was a midnight neighborhood matinee down in Rockport on Saturday night, caused by an over-dose of poor whisky. While there was considerable noise, very little damage resulted.

—Funeral services were held over the remains of James McLay this afternoon. The services were at the family residence in Johnstown, and among those present were many from this city.

—It is said that the treasurer of the Janesville Mutual base ball club who suddenly left the city on Saturday, is wanted to make a final report and to turn over some fifty or sixty dollars of the club's funds. It is also said other parties would like to see him long enough to balance small accounts.

—Nelson Bruette, of Jefferson, sends to the Gazette office a practical little pamphlet entitled: "Tobacco, How Grown and Prepared for Market." The pamphlet includes much that will be of use to growers. Mr. Bruette's system of housing especially is a novel one, and seems likely to meet with much favor.

—Since the street lamps have been boxed up by the new signs a peculiar game is finding favor among west side youngsters. They all start from a given point with lanterns or torches and try to find a lamp post. The one who succeeds takes the game, but no one can win without. A thorough knowledge of the various streets, especially if the night be at all dark is required to succeed.

—No plans for the Second ward school building can be presented in less than two weeks. A meeting of the school board will be held to-morrow evening to consider the furnace question but beyond this little can be done. It is not likely that the new building will be ready before October. The board will probably be obliged to hire rooms to take its place.

The city and town of Rockford is assessed 51 1-5 per cent of the whole amount—$10,153,753, not including the railroad, telegraph and telephone property.

—A "kicker is a kicker," says an Iowa paper. He kicks at what others do, and all they don't do; he kicks at what he tries to do himself, and what he fails to do. He kicks himself into heaven, and then kicks because he didn't go to hades. He's got the same disposition as a scrub mule, and is worth about as much to society. Sensible people laugh as he strains himself in trying to injure others. You'll find these mental curiosities in every community: ditto, dogs. Both do lots of barking and very little biting. Kick the "kicker."

—The Oshkosh Northwestern: The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. accepted the resignation of Rev. H. Stone Richardson as secretary last evening. Mr. Richardson tendered his resignation mainly on account of his ill health, though in his communication to the board he stated no reason for his action. The members of the board expressed their sympathy with Mr. Richardson in his illness, and also their high appreciation of the work he has done. He will remain in the city for a time and assist in the work before going to Chicago, where he will meet Mrs. Richardson and proceed to Ashland for a short rest, and also for the purpose of benefitting Mrs. Richardson, who is subject to hay fever.

THE WATER WORKS.

This morning at seven o'clock, and for some time after, the office of Mr. Carroll E. Gray, Jr., the contractor for laying the water pipe, was besieged by a large crowd of men eager to obtain employment in the trenches, many of them having been informed to be on hand this morning prepared to go to work. After waiting an hour or so, no one in authority putting in an appearance, all retired, concluding that the work of digging trenches had been postponed. Soon after a reporter for the Gazette visited the office of the contractor, and there learned the cause of the delay. Mr. Paxton, the foreman, had just returned from Escanaba, Mich., where he had been on some business connected with a job of pipe laying just completed at that place. Mr. Paxton said it was the intention to commence pipe laying here this morning, but some of the material, which ought to have been here last week had not yet arrived. About the first thing to do was to set a fire hydrant at the corner of River and West Milwaukee streets, but no hydrants had yet arrived. Should the hydrants and some other necessary material arrive to-day, work will be commenced to-morrow. Mr. Paxton says he does not expect to commence with a full force of men, but when the full force gets to work he will put down from 1,500 to 2,200 feet of pipe per day, and will average one mile and over per week.

There having been so much said about the six inch pipe to be laid in Milwaukee street, from the bridge to Jackson street, many contending that it was too small, we called on Engineer Williams, who explained with a smile, stating that our people would find that pipe sufficient to supply all demands upon it. It is to be fed at River street by a 10 inch pipe coming up from the pumps, and by a 12-inch pipe on Jackson street. This 6-inch Milwaukee street main is only about six hundred feet in length, used mostly for domestic purposes along that street, there will also be three—possibly five—fire hydrants on this line of pipe—one at River street, one at Corn Exchange, one on Franklin street. Possibly one at the bridge and one mid-way between Franklin and Jackson streets. From Jackson street west the main pipe is 10-inch. That little 6-inch pipe will throw all the water the people will want in that vicinity. The larger pipes are placed in the streets running north from the pumping house and south from the stand pipe.

"TESTED BY EXPERIENCE."

The Rev. T. DeWitt Peake's Sunday Night Sermon.

Court Street M. E. church was full to the doors at the union service last evening. The Rev. Mr. Peake's sermon was a strong one, having for its subject "Christianity Tested by Experience." It dealt especially with the application of scientific principles to religious experience. Christianity proposes its own test, just as nature proposes hers. If men will not submit to nature's demands they cannot test them, and neither can they the demands of the church. This being the case, no man has a right to question God's promises who has not fulfilled the condition. "God promises that the liberal soul shall be filled" said the speaker, "Have you tasted the promise? If not, what right have you to say that it is not the case."

Before and after the service there was congregational singing of a high order. The results of Mr. Hayden's work in this are to be seen very plainly.

—Messrs. George Irish and Al. Bintliff, two of Janesville's noted fishermen, went to the Madison lakes to-day, where they intend spending several days camping and fishing, in hopes of capturing some of the "big fish" the Madison Democrat has been telling about.

THE MONTANA RANGES.

So much has been said about the ranges having been eaten out in Montana that one would almost be prepared to believe the country as bare of grass as some of the sage brush deserts of New Mexico or Arizona. Whatever the motive may have been for these statements, or how true they may be of the Yellowstone and Powder River ranges, they do not fit the case along the Missouri river and northern part of the territory. The grass through all that region is unusually early and heavy this year, and has never better than it is the present season. The abundant spring rains have brought it along so rapidly that on May 25th it was already nearly tall enough in the valleys to cut for hay and furnish an abundance of succulent grazing for the teams of the grading outfits on the new Montana Extension of the Manitoba road.

A Woman's Sweet Will.

She is prematurely deprived of her charms of face and form, and made unattractive by the wasting effects of ailments and irregularities peculiar to her sex. To check this drain upon not only her strength and health but upon her amiable qualities as well, is her first duty. This is safely and absolutely accomplished by a course of self-treatment with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a nervine and tonic of wonderful efficacy, and prepared especially for the alleviation of those suffering from "dragging-down" pains, sensations of nausea, and weakness incident to women—a boon to her sex. A CHURCH FAIR.

How the Good People of Center Keep the Ball Rolling.

Among the many enterprising entertainments given by the ladies of the Center Grove church, the last was the grand success of the season. The ladies put their heads together to lift from the shoulders of the treasurer the church debt, and relieve the minds of the church membership from the thought of financial embarassment, which so often saps the spiritual life of a church. They knew of no other way than to give a series of socials, the last of the series being a combination between a lawn, festival and fair. Every lady in the community felt that on her rested the the success of the entire plan. Before the last social took place the debt of the church had been wiped out and a small amount left in the treasury. It was announced that the long looked for fair would take place at the home of Mr. Samuel Cleland, Friday evening. The evening was charming and from 7:30 to 9 o'clock the carriages came thick and fast. The grounds were made beautiful by Chinese lanterns and the guests were cordially welcomed by the Misses Cleland. The house was aglow with lights. The well known stock buyer, Alex. Wiggin had been captured by the ladies for their auctioneer, his genial disposition being his recommendation. He had a grand display to begin on, many of the Janesville merchants aiding the ladies by donating articles which were sold at good prices. Trembling lest he might not get bidders on his beautiful articles, the auctioneer mounted a chair and began by offering for sale fan. This article at once found bidders and he was encouraged and for two hours stood at his post until he had sold every article at a good price. Then came a rush for the lawn festival and the hungry were fed with the best viands of the land. After the supper Miss Crall, of whom Janesville is proud as a talented elocutionist, gave the assembly a literary treat by repeating two of her favorite selections. She was listened to with the closest attention, and highly spoken of by all who heard her. Her voice is clear and pure, and her enunciation excellent. Before the happy gathering broke up to go to their homes, the hearts of the ladies were made glad by the announcement that $104.26 had been made over and above expenses.

R-E-V-E-N-G-E.

The Rockford Reds Take It Out of the Janesvilles—A Score of 21 to 2—Oh so Easy.

The spirit of revenge roosted upon the bats of the Rockford nine yesterday, and flapped its wings and crowed. From the moment that Hunky Hines opened the game by taking a chew of tobacco, it was evident that the victory would clothe our nine like a pair of circus tights. Mr McCormick monkeyed with the spheroid, picked the ends of his fingers and tried to rub the hide off during the entire game, and the Janesvillians didn't know what to do about it. They battered wind till the atmosphere must have been singed, spotted and streaked with invisible gore. Well the gentlemen from the north barely squeezed in a couple of runs, while our nine wore out all the profits in shoe leather running around the bases. Watts being short, knocked a ball under the fence for a home run, and Kinson being long knocked one over, accomplishing the same fiendish purpose. Stapleton and H. Hines also batted well. Kinson caught two splendid long running flies, Stapleton coppered a neat hot one, and O'Brien did some splendid work at third For the Janesvilles, Holmes caught exceeding well; M. Cantillon covered second base, O. Sutherland was their best batter. The gate receipts were sixty-five dollars—Rockford Register.

There is two sides to that game, Mr. Register. Our boys understood that a Janesville man was to umpire the game—by this we do not wish to be understood as saying that the club having the umpire always wins, yet Rockford-Janesville games appear to go that way—but on arriving at the Forest City our team was informed that a Rockford man was to umpire, and that if that was not satisfactory, the Janesvilles might choose the umpire and relinquish claims of gate receipts. Our boys chose the former, whereupon their best pitcher refused to take part in the game, and the Mutuals went through the face of playing the game, coming home about fifty dollars ahead.

No matter what parts it may finally affect, catarrh always starts in the head and belongs to the head. There is no mystery about the origin of this direful disease. It begins in a neglected cold. One of the kind that is "sure to be better in a few days." Thousands of victims know how it is by sad experience. Ely's Cream Balm cures colds in the head and catarrh in all its stages. Not a snuff nor a liquid.

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the Blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial diseases, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal.

PREPARING TO RETURN HOME.

Interlaken, Switzerland, June 19, 1887.—Hoped to have received some mail here, and feel greatly disappointed that I have not. Our stops now are so short in each place, that, somehow, our mails do not reach us. At Genoa received Mrs. L's and yours of the 22d of May—now almost a month since they were written. Have not had any papers since we left Venice. Your letters very gratifying inasmuch as they assured me that all was well at home. More than two months have passed since we left home, and the remaining two, I presume, will pass more rapidly.

Already, Prof. B. is planning for our return, and is waiting for communications from the Inman line. Thought of returning by the same line that brought us over, but the steamer we wanted, does not sail until a week later. Must leave on the 1st of September, in order to return in season for Rollie to enter college. The steamer in view now, is the "City of Chicago" and sails on the 30th of August. On Thursday morning, before leaving Geneva, Miss Main and I went to see the Cathedral (Protestant) built 1024, and where Calvin preached. The pulpit and chair are the same that he occupied, but the greater part of the church has been rebuilt. At eleven o'clock, we took the steamer on the lake, and went almost the length of it, to Chillon, the castle which Byron has immortalized by his poem, "The Prisoner of Chillon." It was built in 830, and remains in a good state of preservation. It is now used as a military prison and barracks. Lake Geneva is a beautiful body of water. 40 miles long, and about 4 wide. The color of the water is very blue. There are many fine residences, and quaint villages on the banks, and the mountains in background, give it a fine setting.

After visiting Chillon, we returned to Ouchy, an hour's ride on the lake, and from there, ten minutes' ride up an incline railway, brought us to Susanne, a very much up and down place, as we found on trying to get to the old church and plaza, where there was a fine view of the lake and mountains. It seemed very odd, as we looked over the railing, to see gardens on a level with the tops of the houses beneath them.

From Susanne, we went to Berne stopping four hours to see the quaint old place. It is the capital of Switzerland, and we visited the State house, and saw the senate and representatives in session. The houses are built on arcades, and afford a very pleasant walk in hot, or wet weather. Over the gate of the old wall there is a curious clock. Father Time is seated in his chair, with hour glass in hand, which he turns every hour. On his right is a cock, which flaps his wings, and crows three minutes before the hour. At the left, a bear nods his head approvingly; and below, a procession of bears pass by as the clock strikes. A stone figure with hammer in hand, strikes the great bell, and then the cock again crows. The fountains are very grotesque. One represents an ogre drowning a child, and other children are held in his pocket and girdle. The bear is the emblem of the Canton, and is shown up in a variety of ways. From Berne, an hour's ride brought us to Lake Thun, where we took steamer to Scherzligen—(end of the lake) then a ten minutes ride by rail road to InterlarKin, where we are spending the Sabbath. InterlarKin is made up of one long street, and several short ones. The buildings are principally hotels, with very fine grounds. The old residences are very attractive, with their wide spread roofs and carved fronts. One opposite us, bears the date, 1773—with a German inscription across the front—below there are two clusters of windows, with four sashes, and twenty panes of glass, in each. On either side, in a panel, is a bear, a lion, a stork, and a dove—then another German inscription, which Miss Main has interpreted as "God bless this house and all who dwell therein." Another row of carving, and below are eight windows, and two on either side in the wings. The lower story is occupied by stores. The building is painted a rich, dark color, and has a tile roof. Behind it are green mountains, and through the gap we have a fine view of the snow-covered Jungfrau. At present, the clouds are trying to envelop it, and only the peak is to be seen. A Sunday stillness is around us, and, as I look toward the towering mountains and view the wonderful works of the Creator, I am led to realize how vastly superior they are, compared with the ingenuity and productions of man. This has seemed more like Sabbath than any we have had.

We are now in a Protestant country, most of the stores being closed, and the people are out in Sunday attire. Attended the Scotch-Presbyterian church this morning, and heard an excellent sermon from the text, "Lord, teach us how to pray." The Scotch, Episcopal, and Catholic churches hold service under one roof. The building, formally being a convent—other parts are used as a hospital and prison. The Swiss are very thrifty people, and there is an air of comfort and happiness about their homes. We had a charming trip yesterday, by carriage to Grindenwald and Santerbrunnen. The former is at the head of a valley, 3,400 feet high, and interesting for its mountain and glacier surroundings; and the latter for its waterfalls. The valley is about one-half a mile wide, and on either side are precipitous rocks, some thousand feet high. It is said, that in winter the sun does not strike the valley until noon; and in summer, not until seven a. m. Looking up the valley the Jungfrau rises to the left, and Breithorn to the right. The fall of the Trummelback is through a gorge of Jungfrau; the torrent is fed from the glacier, and as as it forces itself down, and strikes on the opposite side of the cavern, it sounds like a great rolling mill in full blast. On a bridge built across the stream, three rainbows are visible. The Staubback falls in one leap, 950 feet, breaking into mist; it looks like a beautiful veil as it falls below; and at the top it looks like smoke pouring out of a chimney. The mountain sides are dotted with houses, the meadows fields of flowers, and the air is fragrant with new mown hay. At different points, seen for a pittance, were ready to blow the Alpine horn, and the echoes were very fine. The view and trip were so lovely that I feel that I have given you but a very faint description, in fact, I cannot describe it, and only wish you could see it for yourself. To-morrow we leave for Lucerne, and expect to spend the night on Mt. Riga, where there is an incline railway; so we will not have a difficult task in reaching the summit. Our trip to Merde Grace was a very hard one, so I have decided to decline any more mule-back rides. Prof. H. and Rollie were anxious for a trip over the Wengern Pass, but the ladies begged to be excused, so it was given up. This week will take us out of Swizerland—Munich being the last point. After that, Dresden, Brussels, etc.

June 21st—Your letter of May 30th and letters from other friends reached me to-day and I was very glad to receive them. It will be four weeks to-morrow since your letter was written and I had begun to imagine all sorts of evil.

LIKELY TO BE A CHANGE.

New Quarters Now Being Provided for the Public Library.

From all reports, the public library will soon be in new quarters. There has long been a complaint because the present rooms are too small, but, as nothing better could be found, no change was made. Now, however, Captain Pliny Norcross is finishing his addition to the Phoebus block, so that accommodations will be offered, unexceptionable in every respect. The entire second floor is thrown into one large, airy room, with cloak and hat rooms annexed and is well lighted and handsomely frescoed. The entrance is through the Phoebus block stairway while, to the first floor the entrance is through Burns & Boland's, this floor being intended for a cloak room. No arrangements for changing the location of the library have yet been made but it is understood that most of the aldermen favor it, while in Mayor Winans' message something of the kind was strongly recommended.

A WORD TO THE GIRLS.

A well known lady writes in the Current of July: Girls, you cheapen yourselves by lack of purpose in life. You show commendable zeal in pursuing your studies—your alertness in comprehending, and ability in surmounting difficult problems have become proverbial; nine times out of ten you outrank your brothers thus far, but when the end is attained, the good reached, whether it be the graduating certificate from a graded school or a college diploma, for nine out of every ten it might be added thereto, dead to further activity, or, sleeping until marriage shall resurrect her.

Crocheting, plaquing, dressing, visiting, music, and flirtations, make up the sum total for the expense and labor expended for your existence. If forced to earn your own support, you are content to stand behind a counter, or teach school term after term in the same grade, while the young men who graduated with you walk up the grades as up a ladder, to professorship and good salary, from which they swing off into law, physics, or, perhaps, the legislative firmament leaving difficulties and obstacles like nebulæ in their wake. You girls, satisfied with mediocrity, have an eye mainly for the "main chance"—marriage. If you marry wealthy—which is marrying well according to the modern popular idea—you dress more elegantly, cultivate more fashionable society, leave your thinking for your husband and minister to do for you, and become in the economy of life, but a sensient nonentity. If you are true to the grand passion, and accept with it poverty, you bake, brew, scrub, spank the children, and talk with your neighbor over the back fence for recreation, spending the years literary like the horse in a treadmill, all for the lack of a purpose, a purpose sufficiently potent to convert the latent talent into a gem of living beauty, a creative force which makes all the adjuncts secondary like planets to their central sun. Choose some one course or calling and master it in all its details, sleep by it, swear by it, work for it, and if marriage crowns you, it can but add new glory to your labor.

A Race to Hymen.

There was an interesting race in the Bois, writes a Paris correspondent. The contestants were on horseback, and were three in number. In spite of the fact that the Bois is not laid out for racing, the race was immensely interesting and exciting—to the contestants, if not to those who chanced to be the spectators. The goal was a magistrate's office, but the parties to the race were not criminals. The Baron Chalnier is one of the richest men in Paris. He is an enthusiastic horseman, and when his daughter Estelle came to a proper age, which was not long ago, he made arrangements to have her instructed in equestrianism. He employed the best teacher of the art of riding known in the city—a tall, blonde young fellow, nicknamed the "stirrup man." He had orders to supply the young lady with horse and escort whenever she should desire to ride, for the Baron could not think it possible for anybody to overdo the practice of riding in the saddle. But presently he got warning that the young lady, who seemed all devoted to equestrianism, was really interested in another direction, and the baron deemed it the proper thing to order the stirrup man to discontinue his lessons. He rode rode out into the Bois for the purpose of affecting this. He met his daughter at the beginning of the Queen Margaret road. She was evidently enjoying the day, and, so, too, was her hired escort. The baron put spurs to his horse, and the young people, scenting a disagreeable interview, turned about and did likewise. That was the beginning of the race. The stirrup man proved that he had been a thorough instructor, for he and his fair pupil outstripped the experienced baron. While the chase was at its fleetest the young people formed and developed the plan of elopement. Having outridden the baron, therefore, and by adroit manœuvering set him flying off in the wrong direction, they proceeded to the city and hunted up an obliging magistrate, who made them one. Then they hunted up the baron to plead for forgiveness. It is not yet known whether this has been granted.

A Thrifty California Maid.

Miss Ellen Callehan of California sold last Saturday forty-six head of beef cattle at 8½c a pound. This is the highest price paid in the valley in two years for beef. Miss Callehan received $2,312.75 for her cattle, and has a band still growing. Some twelve or fifteen years ago her brother died and left her two good ranches and a band of cattle and horses. Since then she has managed the ranches and stock herself as sole proprietor. She is a noted character here for her peculiar manner in attending to her household affairs, as well as caring for her stock and gathering in her large crop of hay, etc., all of which she personally superintends. She can harness a team, break wild horses, run a mower, feed the stock, or do anything of the work on a ranch. She shows great charity for stock, as often she has been known to take the young calves, colts, chickens and ducks into the kitchen to save them from the inclemency of the weather for several weeks at a time. She would make a good match in marriage for a middle-aged man, with muscle cultivated to work, and it is our opinion that none others need apply. Dudes would not, we believe, be noticed as candidates for the matrimonial hand of Miss Callehan. She lives alone in her gallery and appears to enjoy herself both indoors and out, but especially when driving a good pair of her unbitable horses, over which she holds the reins in a manner peculiar to herself. She values her property at $10,000. She weighs about 130 pounds, wears neither false teeth or hair; she has a healthy complexion and blue eyes. She would not take good bank checks or gold notes for her beef from Mr. Miller, but must have the coin, and she took it home with her in a barley sack. The banks, she says, are all swindlers, is the reason she will not take checks or gold notes.

Uncle Elijah Bellflower, of Dawson, Ga., failed to attend a recent meeting of the Masonic Lodge and the members were so surprised at his absence that a committee was sent out to see if he was ill. This was the second time in forty-eight years that Mr. Bellflower has missed a meeting.

LABOR MATTERS.

A Protest Against the New Constitution of the Knights of Labor.

New York, July 11.—There will be a very vigorous protest against the new constitution of the Knights of Labor, which goes into effect to-day, according to the general executive board. At least 300 local assemblies in this neighborhood will refuse to be guided by its provisions. District assembly 75, which voted against it to a local, will run a risk of suspension rather than work under it. Some of the knights opposed to it doubt the accuracy of the count by which the executive board declared it adopted. They would like to look at the official list of locals that voted for and against it. The new administration of district 49 is in the long list of objectors. It is said that the new constitution was unconstitutionally projected, even if the count was all right. One of the features in the new constitution that is particularly objectionable is the compulsory tax of 2 cents a head a month for the co-operative fund, managed by the executive board. If the locals had been permitted to vote on each article separately this feature would have been rejected by a big majority. But they were compelled to reject or accept the constitution as a whole.

There will be a general refusal of the assemblies hereabouts to recognize the new rule curtailing the size of the general assembly. The old rule gave every 1,000 knights a delegate; the new rule calls for a delegate to every 3,000. The result of this will be that many assemblies will elect delegates according to the old rule and send them to Minneapolis in October. A lively time over their acceptance or rejection by the committee on credentials is certain.

A Demand for a Charter.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—Discontent is spreading among the Knights of Labor iron and steel workers throughout the country. They are indignant at the general officers of the order because they have not been granted a charter for a national trades assembly, and already several assemblies threaten to withdraw from the order unless a charter is granted. It is just one month since the organization was formed at Harrisburg, Pa., and an application made for a charter. Since then nothing has been heard from the Knights of Labor headquarters at Philadelphia. A prominent member of the order has gone to Philadelphia with instructions to call on General Master Workman Powderly and insist upon the granting of the charter. The national assembly is composed of iron workers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia and Illinois.

The Coke Strike Not Ended.

Uniontown, Pa., July 11.—The coke strike has not yet ended. The action of Friday's convention in offering to resume work if a sliding scale was agreed to has caused a good deal of dissatisfaction, and another meeting will be held Monday, when it will probably be decided to continue the strike. Notwithstanding this, the operators seem to be on top, and a general resumption is regarded as only a question of a short time. At Everson the excitement is intense. The strikers held another meeting Saturday, and resolved not to be governed by the action taken yesterday, but to stand out for the advance. The leaders favor a resumption at the old wages, but the rank and file want the increase.

The Potters Form an Assembly.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—Fifty delegates, representing nearly all the potters in the United States, have formed a national trades assembly of the Knights of Labor. J. N. O'Neil of East Liverpool, Ohio, was elected District Master Workman. An application has been made to General Master Workman Powderly for a charter. The membership of the National Assembly will run well up into the thousands, but just how many can not now be stated.
